BLAZE CHASES FAMILY FROM COTTAGE TODAY

A mother and her four children were driven from their cottage home on Marsh creek, at Black Hole, a half mile north of the Fairfield road and the old Black Horse tavern shortly after 7 o'clock this morning when an oil stove in the kitchen flared up and filled the home with smoke and fumes.

Mrs. Joseph B. Yohe, who occupies the cottage with her husband and children, discovered the fire, and was burned on the tips of the fingers of her right hand when she tried to turn down a burner on the oil stove. She was later treated for hysteria by Dr. Joseph Baker at his nearby home.

Gettysburg firemen were called at 7:30 o'clock, but found the fire, confined to the stove, had burned itself out without igniting the cottage, and loss was confined to smoke damage.

The cottage was formerly owned by the late Harry B. Bender. Mr. Yohe, an employee of the Gettysburg furniture factory, had lighted the oil stove and placed a tub of water on it to heat, at his wife's request, before leaving for work this morning, firemen said.

Mrs. Yohe and the children were in bed when the stove flared up and smoke began to fill the cottage. She herded the children, two of school age and two younger ones, out of the cottage, scantily clad, and was herself driven from the smoke-filled building after trying vainly to turn off the burner.

Firemen said the oil reservoir on the stove was empty and the fire out when they arrived.

British Wife Of Yank Gives Good Impression Of America On Return Visit To Homeland

When Mrs. Betty Muriel Timmons, wife of William T. Timmons, Jr., 22½ Chambersburg street, arrived in England on August 26 for a three months' visit with her parents, one of the first impressions she gave was that "living conditions are very good over there," meaning in America.

She was interviewed by a representative of a Bridgewater, England, newspaper, which reported in its columns:

"Mrs. Timmons has been very well treated in America, and told me: 'As soon as I arrived there, nearly three and a half years ago, people whom I did not know started calling on me and giving me little presents.'"

"Good Living Conditions"
"Her home town is Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. To her mind it is one of the most historical towns in the states. As a tourist town there is plenty of life, and her friends keep her busy."

"Living conditions are very good over there and Mrs. Timmons' apartment has every labor-saving device imaginable. Everything is done from the women's point of view."

"To her mother, Mrs. Crandon, she has brought a snapshot album showing all the different aspects of the town in which she lives. Included also are newspaper cuttings, with pictures taken on her arrival in America.

"Primarily, Mrs. Timmons is home because her sister is due to be married on September 24th. And before she left for England she received numerous invitations from friends for a final farewell supper party."

Gains 38 Pounds
"As the accent is on food, it might be well to mention this. Mrs. Timmons left this country weighing 97 pounds. She now weighs 135 pounds."

"Noticeable, too, is the American accent. Frankly, I rather like it. The accent is just that cross between an ordinary speaking Englishman and a fast-talking American. Rather cute, too."

Mrs. Timmons was formerly Miss Betty M. Crandon of 22 Newton road, Highbury, England. She met her husband while "Bill" was stationed as a GI at Burnham, in 1945. The English newspaper quotes Mrs. Timmons as saying that the first thing she noticed upon her return to England was the shortage of the ration. "I was under the impression that rations were more than this," she explained.

Mr. Timmons is employed by the First National bank. He served three years in the army.

Shaffer, served for several years in the service department of a Frigidaire dealership in Blair county. Smith is connected with the Adams County Electric cooperative. Shaffer served 14 months in Italy during World War II as an engineer in the U. S. Air Force.

GOVERNMENT TO ERECT GRAIN STORAGE BINS

Twenty huge, steel, grain storage bins, each holding 3,300 bushels, will be erected within the next 10 days near Gettysburg to handle surplus grain to be stored under government loan.

That announcement was made today by Martin T. Walter, chairman of the Adams county committee for the production and Marketing Administration, which has leased ground for the storage bins.

More than an acre of land, lying west of the Adams Electric Cooperative's Biglerville road substation, has been leased for five years from Edward Toddes. The lease agreement carries with it an option for an extension of the lease or purchase of the plot, Mr. Walter said.

The committee selected the site because of its comparatively central location after inspecting other possible sites.

Start Work At Once
The committee expects to start work immediately clearing the ground in preparation for the erection of the bins which have been shipped by a firm in Virginia and will be erected by the manufacturer.

Mr. Walter said a grain cleaner will be placed at the bins and eventually an elevator may be added to the equipment there. The tanks and other equipment will be the property of the Commodity Credit Corporation, which is a part of the Production and Marketing Administration.

The bins are being placed to store grains which have been purchased by the Commodity Credit Corporation and will include wheat, barley and corn. Approximately 60,000 bushels of corn in this county already are under loan to the government with no storage facilities. Storage and freight car shortages have contributed to the present crisis, Mr. Walter explained. As storage space becomes available in Baltimore and Philadelphia, the grains will be moved from the storage bins here to those cities.

The bins will measure 18x18 feet and will be covered. Corn is expected to be the first grain to be handled. The corn will be shelled before going into the bins and will have to be under a set moisture content limit.

Holman L. Sell, Littlestown, and Roy A. Weaver, Gettysburg R. 4, are the other members of the local committee.

Mrs. Mary Alice Miller Of Aspers Marks 93rd Birthday

This is a big day in the life of Mrs. Mary Alice Eppelman Miller, of Aspers. It marks another milestone along her road of life—the 93rd.

For most of the last 20 years Mrs. Miller has been living alone in the house which she and her husband, John H. Miller, built in 1902. All her life has been spent in or near Aspers. In fact, she has watched the town grow. She was there before the railroad and most of everything else that now belongs to Aspers. She remembers walking to Bendersville to attend church or make purchases at the store. She recalls attending school at Locust Grove and Cranberry and the way she enjoyed sleigh rides and spelling bees.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller had four children—three boys and a girl. Mrs. Miller has outlived two of her children. Still living are two sons, James Grayson Miller, of Ohio, and Walter S. Miller of Bryn Mawr. She has eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Civil War Memories
Among her earliest memories are those of the Civil War. Rebel soldiers took blankets and wanted horses. During the battle at Gettysburg she heard the rumbling of the cannon and hid under the bed (Please Turn to Page 2)

START DRIVE TO REGISTER ALL VETERANS

A campaign to have every World War II veteran in the county registered to vote before October 3 was being readied today by veteran organizations throughout the county.

Robert Deardorff, chairman of the Veterans Bonus committee of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post, said today that VFW and American Legion units throughout the county are joining in the campaign. The Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion will name its registration drive committee Monday. Other posts including the Littlestown VFW have already named their groups.

To aid in getting the veterans registered, the various committees plan to call upon the Republican and Democratic party organizations to join in the general drive to get the veterans registered for the November elections.

To Vote On Bonus
"The scheduled balloting on a Pennsylvania bonus for veterans is the particular reason why we are seeking to get all veterans registered now," Deardorff said. "However, in asking the two political parties to assist us in getting veterans registered we are not asking them to endorse the bonus. Some veterans will vote for a bonus, some will vote against it, some will vote Republican and some will vote Democratic. It is not our desire to influence any vote. What we want to do is to get every veteran registered so that he can vote. Only by a hundred per cent vote can we determine just what the people want. And while our campaign is designed primarily to get veterans registered, we feel that all persons eligible should be registered and should vote, as a matter of good citizenship."

Two thousand posters will be placed throughout the county next week by the local VFW committee working in conjunction with similar committees from other Legion and VFW posts.

The registration must be carried out within a two-week period, as the registration lists will close October 3, Deardorff said.

SEMINARIAN TO RESUME RELIEF WORK OVERSEAS

Kenneth Senft, graduate of Gettysburg college and a middle student at the seminary here, will return to Germany within the next several weeks for his third year of work assisting in the resettlement and care of displaced persons in Germany.

Senft, who two years ago halted his seminary career to go to Germany to serve with the Lutheran World Federation staff for displaced person work in Germany, found the work so vital he stayed two years instead of the agreed one. He took furlough of about three weeks, returning here, and will go back for another year of duty, or possibly more, before completing his ministerial duties.

While the job he originally began—that of aiding the displaced persons in Germany, is scheduled to end in 18 months, another similar problem, that of the refugee from Eastern Europe, is increasing in intensity and difficulty day by day, he pointed out today.

New Problem More Complex
Through arrangements made by the International Refugee Organization of the United Nations, with which the Lutheran Federation staff is working in Germany, all of the displaced persons in DP camps in Germany, will have been sent to new homes within a year and a half, Senft said. While many have come to the United States, Australia and Canada have taken the bulk of the displaced persons, and other countries throughout the world have offered facilities for their share.

While the Lutheran World Federation found its work difficult with displaced persons—30 per cent of whom, primarily Estonians and Latvians, were Lutherans—the growing problem of refugees is even more complex and difficult than that of the DPs, Senft said.

Senft hopes the United States may be able to take care of some of the refugees as it will 205,000 of the displaced persons. The Lutheran World Federation aided 30,000 of the DPs in their resettlement in the U. S. and hopes to be able to give aid to many of the refugees.

Food and clothing to supplement the rations available at the displaced person camps were among the bigger jobs of the Lutheran Federation group in Germany (Please Turn to Page 2)

AMERICAN AND 3 BRITISHERS FLEE RED JAIL; WERE TORTURED

Berlin, Sept. 16 (AP)—One American and three British soldiers made a daring escape last night from a Russian prison in East Berlin, the U. S. Army announced today.

The American, Private John J. Sinkiewicz, 26, told officers he and his companions burrowed through a thick wall with a blunt knife and managed to reach through and open their cell door.

Sinkiewicz was taken to an army hospital where he was reported in a "generally weakened physical condition but not unduly undernourished."

Fled Over Wall
He had been held by the Russians since last November 5 when he rode a streetcar into the Soviet sector by mistake. He said he was questioned 16 days and nights and "beaten when they said I was lying." Sinkiewicz is the son of Mrs. Mary Sinkiewicz of Baltimore, Md.

Sinkiewicz told army officers he and the three British prisoners used an iron bar from one of their beds to pry open their cell block door and then fled over a wall topped by jagged glass.

They reached the street by sneaking through a bombed-out building and then separated to make their way to the Western sector. Sinkiewicz managed to get to a German police station in the French sector and telephoned American authorities.

He said he made one dash for freedom the day he was arrested, but was recaptured November 6 when he could not make his way out of the Soviet sector.

He said he was taken to Oranienburg prison in the Russian zone for exhaustive questioning "by high Russian officers," and later was returned to jail in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Sinkiewicz later told reporters at the hospital the Russians "questioned me many times, all about guns, tanks, troops and such in the American Army."

"When I refused to answer," he added, "a high Russian officer slapped me in the face. They took my clothes away from me and gave me the cold water treatment. That was in February, and they took me into a room naked and stood me knee deep in ice water for 24 hours."

"Never Saw Same Faces"
"Another torture they had was to give me some cigarettes but no matches. Once when I asked a sentry for a match he just jammed his bayonet at me and it ripped my sleeve."

"Another time they punished me for not answering questions by putting me in a little box, in which I had to stand up, without room to sit down or kneel for 24 hours," Sinkiewicz continued.

He said each time he was interrogated the Russian officers were different men. "I never saw the same one twice."

He said he tried to escape twice. The first time was the day he was arrested, November 5, 1948. "I jumped out a window and ran down the street to a German car parked there. I drove away in it but got lost. When I got near a Russian road block I abandoned the car, which I had discovered was owned by a Russian officer, and ran into some woods."

"I wandered into a small German farmhouse and tried to explain my predicament. They agreed to help, and sent me to another house, where I was hidden in a partially-bombed cellar. They promised to take me back to the American sector, but when they didn't show up to take me back I started walking and got on an elevated railway."

"A Russian officer saw me and took me back to his headquarters."

Sinkiewicz said he made his second dash for freedom two months later, when he managed to scale his prison wall by climbing upon an empty beer barrel. He was recaptured two blocks away.

among the DPs. The refugees, who are pouring into western Germany at a rate of 1,000 to 1,500 a day, present an even greater problem. The displaced persons were for the most part confined to camps and the relief work could be easily concentrated.

Refugees Widely Scattered

The refugees, however, are all over Western Germany, living in former barracks, in homes, hotels and any other place they can find quarters. Sentf reported. To help the situation, regulations have been adopted, forcing Germans who have extra rooms in their homes to give lodging to refugees, many of whom, Sentf said, "are the finest people you could ever hope to meet in your life."

Two groups—the Catholic church and the Lutheran church in Germany—are doing the most to help the refugees, Sentf said. He added that "one of the strangest things about the whole problem is the fact that the majority of the Catholic refugees are pouring into the Lutheran sections of Germany and the majority of the Lutheran refugees are coming into the Catholic sections of the country."

GIANT BOMBER HURTTLES INTO LAKE IN TEXAS

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 16 (AP)—A giant B-36 bomber hurtled into Lake Worth last night at 100 miles an hour, killing at least one of its crew of thirteen. Four were missing and eight injured.

A mysterious power failure as the plane roared down Carswell "air force base's long runway was blamed for the accident, first major mishap since the big bombers started flying a year and a half ago.

Technical Sgt. William G. Seymour of Fort Worth was fatally injured.
First Lt. Richard L. English, flight engineer from Sartell, Minn., said he stood on the fuselage of the cigar-shaped ship after the plane hit and took a hasty roll call. He said every man answered.

Rescue Survivors
Crash boats picked up survivors from the wings, fuselage and the water as the six-engine air monster started partially afloat.

The eight known survivors were rushed to the base hospital for treatment of minor injuries. Last night they slept in semi-quarantine, unavailable for questioning.

The plane smashed into the lake—a short distance from the end of the runway—at approximately 7:45 p. m. (CST). It was one of the planes scheduled for a routine training flight.

A fisherman said he saw flames shooting from one of the engines. "I watched it coming down the runway," he said. "The middle engine on the left side was on fire."

Tried In Vain To Stop
The pilot tried to stop, it looked like, saw he was too close and then gunned it. He jumped right into the lake.

The fisherman, who declined to give his name, was casting from a dock directly across the lake from the scene of the crash.

Master Sgt. Kenneth McKellip, in charge of a crash boat, told Max Ewing, Dallas news photographer, that all of the men he picked up were in a daze and that one was seriously injured.

Lt. English said the plane mysteriously lost its power as it was traveling down the runway at about 100 miles an hour for the takeoff.

Maj. Toy B. Husband of Woodlake, Calif., was the pilot. Co-pilot was Maj. John H. Keene of Miami, Fla. The Air Force withheld names of the missing crewmen. Other survivors were: Technical Sgt. Harry Holloway, Jr., of Monongahela, Pa.; Technical Sgt. J. R. Shumake, of Red Springs, Tex.; Staff Sgt. Quentin Freed, of Youngstown, O.; Staff Sgt. James Bradshaw, of Elysian Fields, Tex.; and Staff Sgt. Jack Allen, of Weatherford, Tex.

Sonja Henie Weds Winthrop Gardiner

New York, Sept. 16 (AP)—Grinning at each other, Sonja Henie and Winthrop Gardiner, Jr., gripped a big sword in their hands, and sliced the seven-tier wedding cake.

This was the follow-up yesterday to a seven-minute church ceremony joining the blonde skating star and wealthy socialite aviator. At the Park Avenue Methodist church, a milling, pushing throng of fans jammed the entrance and cheered as the couple made its exit.

Afterward at a reception at the Hotel Plaza, Gardiner's navy sword was used to slice the big cake, which was laid in pale blue to match the bride's net-and-lace gown.

CANNERS VISIT MECHANICSBURG FOR GRID TILT

When Coach Eugene Haas' Biglerville Cannners move into Mechanicsburg to do battle with Coach Johnny Frederick's Wildcats this evening it will be one experienced team against another and both teams will have their work cut out for them.

The Cannners won't be in any mood to be overly polite. They will be on the rebound from a humiliating defeat at the hands of the Hanover Nighthawks last Friday—humiliating because Biglerville dominated in every department except in the scoring. Against an inexperienced Hanover aggregation they overhauled their opponents in first downs 16 to 6 and played most of the game within the shadow of the Hanover goal posts.

Things will be different in this week's fracas when both teams will get a good chance to test both their offense and defense. The Steel and Maroon gridders have 10 lettermen on their club. They have plenty of beef in their forward wall and a strong ground offensive in their backfield combination. Particularly troublesome will be Coach Frederick's ace running backs, George Cuthbert and Don Cornman. The Wildcats will be strong contenders for the South Penn conference crown.

Mechanicsburg has already annexed one victory. It had little trouble in downing Swatara Township 26-0. This week's struggle with Biglerville will be far from a picnic. Coach Haas has veterans in all positions—15 lettermen in all. He has a solid forward wall and a hard charging backfield.

An injury may force Coach Haas' varsity center, Red Plattenberg, to the sidelines for the Mechanicsburg game. If this happens Dick Unger will move to center and Harold Hollabaugh will take over at right guard. Rice, who last week was suffering from an injured elbow which hindered the accuracy of his sharp-shooting as a passer, is as good as new and will give added punch to the Cannners' offense. The lineup will be almost the same one that started against Hanover. In the line will be Warner, Hollabaugh, Kopp, Plattenberg or Unger, Hollabaugh or Unger, Spicer, and Slaybaugh. The backfield will include Rice at quarterback, Heller and Walde, halfbacks and Pitzer at fullback.

Coach Haas figures that Mechanicsburg will field a team below the par of last year, and that Biglerville will enter the game with greater strength. His players are in good condition, too. Last year the Wildcats nipped the Cannners 12-0. This game looks like a thriller that will offer a lot of good football playing.

LOOP PLAYOFFS HOLD INTEREST

The finalists for the championship three-game series of the Adams County Baseball league will be determined Saturday afternoon and the second round of games in the two semi-final series for the South Penn loop will be held Sunday afternoon.

Hanover will be host to Fairfield in one of the deciding semi-final games Saturday. Fairfield won the first game of the three-game affair 4-0 while Hanover copped last week's tilt 8-6.

The Conewago VFW will play at New Oxford. The veterans won the opener 6-5 in 10 innings while New Oxford won the second game 7-5. Sunday afternoon's game in the South Penn playoffs will be held at Bendersville and Cashtown.

Greenmount, winner last Sunday 5-4 over Bendersville, will attempt to make a clean sweep of its series. At Cashtown the Wenksville team, first place outfit in the regular league season, will seek revenge for a 5-4 12-inning gdefeat sustained last Sunday.

Westminster Eleven Here This Evening

With the weatherman's promise of clearing skies this evening, another large crowd is expected to turn out when the Gettysburg high school football team entertains the Westminster high gridders on the high school field at 8 o'clock.

Although the Warriors coasted to an easy 47-0 victory over the Marylanders last season there is every indication that tonight's tilt will be much more closely fought. Coach Ruby is bringing an experienced club here confident of taking the measure of the locals.

Several changes have been made in the Warrior starting cast to give more power offensively and defensively.

Officials for the game will be: Referee, Duke Cramer; umpire, Bud Ecker, and headlinesman, John Pitzer.

Eastern League

The Eastern baseball league's two top teams of the regular season are each two games down in what looks like a topsy-turvy playoff series.

Could be third-place Wilkes-Barre and fourth-place Binghamton will be the finalists.

The champion Albany Senators dropped their second straight of the Governor's Cup semi-finals to Wilkes-Barre last night, 7-6, in another extra-inning battle. Orie Arntzen, who won 25 games and lost only two in the regular season, was the loser.

The Scranton Miners fell again to the Binghamton Triplets, 4-0. Joe Valenzuela, who made a poor regular-season showing, hurled an easy three-hitter. Dick Littlefield allowed the Triplets nine hits, four of them doubles.

The third games of the best-of-seven series will be played tonight at Wilkes-Barre and Binghamton.

INDIANS TRIP YANKS; CASEY IS CRITICIZED

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The second guessers society, kept conspicuously quiet this year by the sound baseball tactics of Casey Stengel, has finally come to life.

The members of the S.G.S. are pointing their fingers at the veteran manager of the New York Yankees, accusing him of pulling a couple of "rocks" yesterday that cost the Bronx Bombers an important game.

How much more those "lapses" will cost the Yankees will not be determined until the season's close. But yesterday they helped the Cleveland Indians to defeat the Yankees, 10-6, which cut the New Yorkers' first place margin over Boston to two and a half games.

Stengel's critics admit that he's done a remarkable job this year.

However, they point out that Stengel was as much at fault in yesterday's loss to the Indians as pitcher Allie Reynolds or the four players who committed five errors which gave Cleveland five unearned runs.

Reynolds Fouted
The S.G.S. is asking why Stengel ordered Reynolds to issue an intentional pass to Larry Doby in the 8th inning, thus forcing Allie to face the ever-dangerous Joe Gordon with a runner in scoring position? And why didn't Casey yank Reynolds during that hectic 8th when the Tribe slammed him for four straight hits and five runs after two were out?

Here is what happened in the fatal eighth. The score was 3-2 in Cleveland's favor. Reynolds walked Dale Mitchell to open the inning. Lou Boudreau sacrificed but Mickey Vernon flied out for the second out. At this point, Stengel ordered Reynolds to walk Doby for Gordon. Larry had homered in the sixth to snap a 2-2 deadlock.

Gordon, an ex-Yankee, promptly doubled to left, scoring Mitchell and sending Doby to third. Bob Kennedy singled to score two more. Thurman Tucker followed with another one-bagger, but Stengel gave no sign to his bull pen brigade. Jim Hegan accounted for another run with the fourth straight Cleveland safety. When outfielder Gene Woodling fumbled the ball, Tucker scampered across the plate with the fifth run of the inning.

Trailing, 8-2, and apparently out of the running, the Yankees pounced upon Bob Lemon for four runs in their half of the eighth to get back into the ball game. A walk, single, and home runs by Cliff Mapes and Yogi Berra made it 8-6. Al Benton relieved Lemon at this point and stemmed the Yankees the rest of the way. The Indians added two insurance runs in the ninth to make Lemon the third 20-game winner in the majors. The others are Mel Parnell and Ellis Kinder of the Red Sox.

Sox Hopes Soar
The Yankee defeat probably raised the spirits of Joe McCarthy's Red Sox, who now trail by four games in the important "lost" column. The Yankees have 16 games left to play, and the Red Sox only 13. The league leaders will be at home in 12 of them, while Boston has only seven home engagements.

The Indians, practically out of it—they trail by six and a half games, seven on the losing side—face a tough fight to hold third place. Yesterday's triumph put them a half game in front of the Detroit Tigers, who along with every other club, was idle. In fact, the Yankees-Indians tussle represented the only activity in the majors.

GIRL, 15, MEETS 3 VET GOLFERS

Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 16 (AP)—The youngest girl ever to reach the semi-final round and three veterans named Dorothy cross clubs today in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf championship.

Fifteen-year-old Marlene Bauer of Los Angeles, is the "rookie." The three Dorothy's are the Dorothy K. Atlanta, Ga.; Dot Kietly, Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Dot Germain Porter, Manoa, Pa.

The round of four at the Merion Golf club pairs the two Californians—Bauer and Kietly—with Kirby and Mrs. Porter meeting in the other match.

Miss Kirby and the surprising Mrs. John L. Hulteng, Rumford, R. I., finished the regulation 18 holes all even after both holed long putts for birdie fours.

Miss Kirby was on the 19th green in two and two putted for a par four. Mrs. Hulteng teed off into a trap, came out short and hit a third shot some 15 feet to the right of the pin on a slight incline. She missed with a putt and that was the match.

Right behind the Kirby-Hulteng match came the dashing Miss Kietly and hard playing Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Tex.

Trapshooters Will Clash On Sunday

The first match of the Adams County Trapshooters league season will be held Sunday afternoon at McSherrystown from 1:30 until about 4:30 o'clock, league officials announced today.

Four county fish and game associations, Gettysburg Littlestown, York Springs and McSherrystown, are members of the county league. Firing will start at 1:30 o'clock with as many members of each club participating as wish to take part. Each man will shoot 50 birds and the five highest scores will be combined as the team score for each club.

Officials explained that use of that system will make for the largest participation by club members. Members of the Gettysburg Sportsmen's club who need transportation to McSherrystown for the shoot are to meet at the club house along Wainwright avenue at 1:30 o'clock Sunday, it was announced.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 16 (AP)—If Charley Fusiari had collapsed on the canvas instead of drooping through the ropes when Rocky Graziano started belting him Wednesday night, he probably would have survived that murderous tenth-round bombing.

But even that way, Rocky's finishing spurt would have won him the decision on points. It was that close on the judges' scorecards. . . . the point is that a knockdown, followed by the routine of wiping off gloves, gives the victim a lot more than nine seconds rest. Next step in restoring Graziano's self-confidence likely will be to send him against Rocky Castellani while Fusiari goes against Kid Gavilan. . . . Looks like a busy season. . . . Branch Rocky insists he won't call on the Dodger farms for late-season help, meaning principally Montreal's Bobby Morgan. . . . Branch claims the rookies' inexperience would hurt rather than help the team.

UMP BUMPED
What a lot of baseball fans probably have hoped to see actually took place in a baseball game at Salisbury, Md., recently when one umpire hauled off and socked another. . . . seems three Delmar players congregated in the "on deck" circle and when plate umpire, Alfred Patton, told them to leave, one of them threw a ball at him. Patton promptly chased the kid from the game. . . . William Morris, umpiring on the bases, rushed in to see what it was all about, got into an argument with Patton and belted him one. . . . hailed into court, Morris was found guilty of assault and was fined.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
Yale's Tony Lavelli has decided to pass up pro basketball and play for the New York Athletic club while he studies music. Dartmouth's Ed Leede, a budding chemist, is contemplating the same move. Both are on the Boston Celtics list. . . . on the Boston Celtics list. . . . The Cincinnati Reds' fan paper is loaded with letms about farm playmen these days—naturally. . . . Richmond, Va., is jumping the gun a bit by staging a "Tobacco Bowl festival" featuring the Richmond vs. V.M.I. football game on October 15. . . . Wonder if the name was picked after the NCAA said to pipe down about bowls. . . . Neatest bit of unconscious humor reported to this dept. was when Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, discussing Army's football prospects, remarked: "I'm afraid their coaches are somewhat timid." He wasn't talking about the schedule, either.

LAW TO SPEAK AT DINNER FOR BALL PLAYERS

John Law, head football coach and athletic director at Mount St. Mary's college, will be the speaker at the dinner to be given next Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, at the Moose home for all Community Softball league players. The Glenn L. Bream garage team, league titlists, will be guests of honor.

Law gained All-America honors while playing for Notre Dame university in 1927, 1928 and 1929, and captained the undefeated Irish in his senior year. He gained national acclaim as a "watch-charm" guard. He coached at Manhattan college, Holy Cross and Notre Dame prior to taking over his present post last year. Law also served many years as Director of Physical Education and Recreation for the New York state prisons.

Attorney Richard A. Brown, president of the Gettysburg Recreation Association, will be the toastmaster. The invocation and benediction will be given by Paul Whitmoyer, recreation director. Henry T. Bream, Gettysburg college coach, will be a guest of honor and will speak briefly.

Presentation of awards to the Bream team will be made by President Johnny Knox.

In addition to players on team rosters, umpires, league officials and sponsors will attend. Managers of teams have been requested to notify President Knox by this evening of the number who will attend from their teams.

FANS TO HONOR KRESS SUNDAY

The Littlestown Baseball club, in cooperation with the fans of the community, are completing plans for the "Nit" Kress Day to be staged Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Littlestown Memorial field, when Taneytown and Littlestown, both of the Penn-Maryland league, will meet in the third game of the Cambridge Rubber Factory Trophy series. In the two games played to date, the first one was called at the end of 12 innings in a night contest, with a 6 to 6 tie. In the second game, played last Sunday afternoon at Taneytown, the Marylanders walked the Adams Countians by a 12 to 3 score to take a 1 to 0 lead in the series.

Taneytown has been strengthened for these playoff games by the addition of Smith from the Emmitsburg club, Crom from the Middleburg nine, and from the Harney club they have acquired Pitcher Johnny Harner.

Littlestown, who was minus the services of its ace righthander, Bob Weaver, due to an attack of gripple last week-end, will be out to avenge the defeat handed them by the Taneytown nine last Sunday.

In pre-game ceremonies on Sunday, George "Nit" Kress will be called to the home plate and will be presented with gifts by the fans of Littlestown and vicinity. Kress, who played for Wausau of the Wisconsin State league this past season, was Littlestown's star centerfielder for three years before going to the St. Louis Brown's Wausau farm team this past spring. Playing 108 games with Wausau, "Nit" batted .307, connecting for 123 safe blows. He was tied at 11 homers for the team honors in this department and was credited with driving in 68 runs.

The Littlestown slugger has received a contract to play with the Brown's Springfield, Illinois, team of the Three "I" league next season.

Interstate League

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 16 (AP)—Except for two innings, Dick Hildebrand was invincible last night as the Harrisburg Senators won the opener of their Interstate league final playoff series from the Trenton Giants 9-4.

For five and a third innings, Hildebrand pitched no-hit ball. Then he allowed three straight singles to bring in Trenton's first run.

In the ninth inning, Hildebrand went into a wild streak, issuing three walks and gave up a three-run pinch double by Trenton Manager Hugh Poland. The Senators put the game

Police Arrest Bruno Hauptmann: New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—A solid mid-mannered German, who fidgeted during extensive questioning in a police lineup, displayed no emotion today when a magistrate held him without bail on a charge of receiving $50,000 paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh two years ago in a futile attempt to ransom his kidnapped son.

In Hauptmann's garage officers found $13,750. In the police lineup he said he had spent about $150. He acknowledged that he had come to this country as a stow-away thirteen years ago, but police previously had said he had come here twelve years ago.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE WILL TO GO ON

Not everyone is born with initiative. It is a rare gift. Yet to each human being is given the opportunity to improve upon every gift with which he is born. And so wide and varied are the opportunities that face us all, no one need complain that he "hasn't a chance."

Each one of us was born to work, to be self-reliant, and to cultivate that valuable will of ours—to go on. Anyone with this latter determination need have no fear as to his success or of his trail to a happy usefulness. He has equipment sufficient to carry him far. And his faith in himself will become a richer product with each new day.

One of the main reasons why so many people fail is that they do not have this will to go on—and on, as Columbus did, who discovered a new world! People with this cultivated asset often go further than they ever dreamed during their early experiences. One triumph leads to another—and then to another. There are those who continually surprise themselves by their progress in life.

Read the story of any successful life and you will learn that it was this will to go on that kept that one with his, or her, eyes to the goal. For years I have been a most devoted reader of biographies, and it is this will to go on that runs through them all. From the simple to the difficult—always on to the more difficult.

Just think of the difficulties that Westinghouse, Pasteur, Ford, Edison, the Wrights, and an endless list of others, had to go through before they got recognition. But they had the will to go on—regardless of all scepticism and difficulties that they had to surmount. Woolworth's first attempt to run a 10-cent store was a failure. But he had the will to go on—and then others were fascinated with his idea, and they, too, profited from it.

We all profit from those who have had the will to go on. They become our mentors, our inspiration, and our benefactors. Cannot we do the same as they, and cling to this will of ours to go on—and on?

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Little Silence."

SPILLS
When grate fires kept the room aglow

Against December's biting chill,
My father, often bending low,
Within the flame would light a spill.

"Now what's a spill?" the children ask.

"A roll of paper," I reply.
"And years ago it was my task
The mantel holder to supply."

"His pipe or reading lamp to light,
He'd take that little paper roll
And hold it so it would ignite
When held against a burning coal."

Since matches were expensive then,
And mother watched the household bills,
On mantel shelves for smoking men
Was always kept a jar of spills.

My father couldn't live to see
The pocket lighters of today,
He never dreamed the day would be
When matches would be given away.

He took for granted boyhood's task
Would always be that jar to fill,
And never thought my son would ask
This foolish question: "What's a spill?"

PSALMS FOR DAILY LIVING
By Rev. Howard R. Gold, D.D.
Margaret C. Gold

Psalm 15; 24:1-6; 143:8-10.
Memory selection: Cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; For I lift up my soul unto thee. Psalm 143:8.

Since earliest times man has been measuring and evaluating all the forces for good in the world. Likewise, he has been faced with the great amount of evil which brings bitterness, sorrow, hatred and conflict. God laid down certain rules of conduct by which man should live, and also pointed out the consequences of disobedience to these sacred laws. However, He gave man a mind and soul and the freedom of choice.

In this next to last lesson on the PSALMS OF ANCIENT ISRAEL we are to study in what way the Psalms help in attaining personal righteousness and how they can guide us in our daily living. What is our true attitude toward God and man? How can we improve these relationships? In other words, are we morally fit to worship God? In two psalms assigned, Psalms 15 and 24, the psalmist poses practically the same questions. Who is worthy to stand in the presence of God or dwell in the house of the Lord? Both Psalms were processional hymns sung by worshippers as they approached the temple. The other psalm, the 143rd, is a beautiful prayer for guidance, a fitting conclusion to the discussion of moral condition necessary for man to enter into fellowship with God. Just one petition in it, "Teach me to do thy will," would serve as an excellent motto for daily living.

A modern preacher would put the question something like this: "Lord, what can we do to prove that we are worthy worshippers?" The psalmist answers his own questions, not in modern terminology, but thought and spirit are the same. He enumerates briefly in Ps. 15:2-5 the qualifications for an upright man: To practice our religion by keeping all moral and religious standards and doing good works; to be truthful, never gossip or slander our friends, neighbors or business associates; to be honest and keep our word even though it causes personal inconvenience or loss; to deal fairly, never taking advantage of an innocent party.

In Psalm 24 the same answer to the question is put more simply: "He that hath a clean hands and a pure heart." That means, in everyday language, that he who does good deeds and has sincere motives

CATTLE—Fresh receipts estimated at 1,000 head formed about half the total number on sale as approximately 1,000 were offered that had been held from earlier in the week. Receipts were about 30 per cent larger than the number received a week ago and two weeks ago today. Salable supplies for the week to date numbered about 5,350 to show an increase of roughly 70 per cent over the same period last week when many persons observed Monday as a legal holiday. Compared to the corresponding period last year, the count was about 6 per cent smaller. A fairly broad demand was evidenced for all classes of cattle that would grade good although in the case of bulls real fleshy offerings were not as desirable as plain meaty kinds. Nothing choice included in the approximately 60 head of cattle grading below good cleared rather slowly. Salable receipts included the equivalent of approximately 60 head of steers and 2 loads of heifers. About 5 loads of steers sold through replacement channels. Practically no strictly dry-cattle on sale, but bulk of grain on grass and short-fed, average to high-grade, $2.75-2.75 and soiled $2.50-2.75. One load of 1,160-pounders top $27. Common and medium, $10-13.50 pounds, $22.50-25. Few small lots good, $25-25.50 and $25.50; common and medium, $20.50-22. Good steers unevenly steady to 50 cents higher than last Monday while other grades sold generally steady. Little net change noted in selling level on the light supply of heifers compared with earlier in the period. A load and some odd lots good heifers, $23-23.50; most common and medium, $20.50-22.

Very few good cows included in the receipts and these on the strong side, but other grades generally steady at the week's advance. Odd head good cows, $18-20 with few above $19. Common and medium cows, $15-17.50, mostly $15.50 down for dairy breeds. Bulk of the canners and cutters, $12-14.50, but odd strongweight cutters noted up to $15 and shelly canners, $11 and below.

Good grade weighty sausage bulls carrying a minimum of fat in broadest demand and sold first. Bulls on a steady to 20-cent higher basis with good grade offerings largely $19-21; common and medium, $17-18.50; odd cutter light dairy, $16-18.50.

A fairly broad inquiry was noted for stock cattle and several loads of sufficient flesh for slaughter use returned to the country for further feeding. Most sales around 50 cents higher than last Thursday. Medium and good 634-1,000-pound stocker and feeder steers, $21-22.50; small lot good 84-pound stock steer calves, $24.

CALVES—Steady prices paid for vealers and calves and trading moderately active with the exception of some weakness on medium and low-grade vealers near the close. Most of the sorted, good and choice vealers, $31-32, top $32. Common and medium, $19-27, and culls, $14-19. A few good and choice, 250-300-pound slaughter calves, $22-28 in most cases.

HOGS—Trading slow in initial rounds but fairly active later. Barrows and gilts unevenly 25-75c lower than yesterday's close of 50c-$1 lower than the early trade yesterday. Offerings in the 160-225 pounds showed the biggest downturn. Sows declined 25c compared with yesterday's early trade but 25c higher than the late dealings. Approximately 200 head of sorted, mostly choice 190-220-pound barrows and gilts, $22.25 to establish the top. Bulk of the

Shirley May France
Going To Try Again

Somerset, Mass., Sept. 16 (P) — Shirley May France is definitely going to try to swim the English Channel again next June.

The 17-year-old Somerset high school girl who failed in her first try said the long training grind will begin early in 1950.

Her failure to negotiate the channel didn't dim the welcome she received upon her arrival from New York last night. Three hundred townspeople greeted her. They included many of her classmates who swarmed around her as she stepped from a red convertible coupe. "It's wonderful to be home," she said. "But I don't feel very well and am really looking forward to a good night's sleep." A "monster" Shirley May France Day is scheduled for September 24. There will be a parade, football game, block dancing and a banquet,

Senate Action To Be Delayed Several Weeks On Sherman Minton Nomination

NO OPPOSITION YET APPARENT TO APPOINTMENT

By JOHN CHADWICK

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP)—Senate action will be delayed a while on President Truman's unexpected nomination of Sherman Minton to be a Supreme Court justice.

Although there was no apparent opposition to the appointment, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of the judiciary committee said the nomination will "take the routine course." That usually takes about three weeks, a committee aide said.

Sensors who would comment on the appointment praised Minton, a former Democratic senator from Indiana, a thorough-going New Dealer and now a judge on the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

Some Disappointed

The President nominated him yesterday to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Justice Wiley Rutledge last Saturday.

Many senators declined comment. While some privately expressed disappointment at the President's choice, they said they knew of no reason to attempt to block the nomination.

McCarran is now en route to Europe for a three-week trip.

Senator Kilgore (D-W.Va.) told a reporter that McCarran telephoned his instructions on the appointment from his ship.

Allow 10 Days

Kilgore, ranking committee Democrat in McCarran's absence, said that this means "everything is stalled for the time being, I'm afraid."

The customary procedure is to allow up to 10 days for any protests to be filed—or even longer if the senators from the nominee's home state request it.

If protests are filed which the committee feels require looking into, hearings may be held. Otherwise, the committee just holds a routine meeting to act on the nomination.

Kilgore, who hailed Minton's appointment as "a fine nomination," said he had thought it might not be

SAYS WOMAN HELPED BURY RIDDLED BODY

Dover, Del., Sept. 16 (AP)—The jury in Delaware's "Lonely Hearts" murder trial was told that Mrs. Inez Brennan helped her son, Robert, bury the bullet-riddled body of an elderly Bedford county, Virginia, carpenter.

The testimony on the fourth day of the trial yesterday came from Maj. James E. Turner, police chief of Dover city and a former Delaware state policeman. He said the 16-year-old Brennan youth told him the burial took place on October 11—the day after Wade N. Woodbridge, 67, purportedly met his death.

A large section of hemp rope was displayed before the jury and represented as that with which Mrs. Brennan and her son dragged the body from its initial pigpen grave to an oil drum in which it was cremated. However, at defense objection, this identification was stricken from the record as far as it related to Mrs. Brennan.

Mrs. Brennan, 46, allegedly met the elderly Virginia man through Lonely Hearts correspondence. The state contends that Robert shot and killed Woodbridge last October 10 on his mother's orders; that the body was temporarily buried in a farm pigpen and then disinterred six and a half months later and clumsily cremated.

The youth is being tried on a first-degree murder charge. His mother is on trial as an accessory to the crime.

Maj. Melvin C. Leisure, state police officer in charge of criminal identification at the time of the Brennans' arrest, was asked to identify the rope.

He said Robert first told him the

Urges Self Help On European Nations

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) called on Western European nations for more self help and closer cooperation among themselves.

"There are definite limits to the rope was used by himself and his mother to drag Woodbridge's body from the barn, where the shooting occurred, to the pigpen. Then, Leisure said, the Brennan boy changed his story, saying that he and his 18-year-old brother, George, dragged the body to the pigpen.

It was on April 1, when the body was disinterred, that his mother helped him with the rope to drag the body from its shallow grave to the oil drum, Robert was quoted as saying.

George Brennan and another brother, Raymond, are awaiting trial later as accessories.

American resources which we can safely invest in foreign aid," the Republican foreign policy leader said.

"Recognition of this fact is as important to you as it is to us because our unweakened strength is a common asset for us all. These limits must not and will not be overreached."

Vandenberg spoke at a dinner of the Overseas Writers club for 50 visiting newspapermen from 14 European countries. It probably was his last major public speech before entering a hospital.

EX-HUNGARIAN RED PLEADS GUILTY IN PLOT

By ENDRE MARTON
Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 16 (AP)—László Rajk, former number two Hungarian Communist, pleaded guilty today of plotting to overthrow the Red-dominated Hungarian government.

The 42-year-old former minister of interior and former foreign minister pleaded guilty to all charges in the indictment against him. These charges included plotting with representatives of Marshal Tito's Yugoslav government to assassinate leading Hungarian officials and to make Hungary "a colony of Yugoslavia."

1st Of Eight To Plead
Rajk was the first of eight defendants to enter a plea. His plea came within 90 minutes of the time the trial opened in the headquarters of the Hungarian metal workers union.

Rajk repeatedly answered "guilty" as the presiding judge of the five-member court read the charges against him.

Before the pleas were entered, all the defendants had stood rigidly for 55 minutes while the court read the long indictment.

Two uniformed soldiers stood between the individual defendants.

Tells His Story
When the indictment had been read, the seven other defendants were taken from the courtroom and Rajk was marched to the microphone in front of the bench of Presiding Judge Peter Janko.

After admitting his guilt, Rajk began—in calm, clear and measured tones—to tell the story of his life.

He admitted the claim in the government's indictment that he had been a police informer since 1931, even while holding important posts in the Communist party and the Communist-controlled government.

Correspondents observed that Rajk seemed eager to admit all the charges against him and actually appeared anxious to remember every detail connected with the plot of

Judge Rules More Children "Cruel"

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (AP)—Enough is enough, Mrs. Ernestina Macias told the judge.

In 27 years, she said she had 17 children by Alejandro Macias—14 still living.

But Macias, 53, an unemployed gardener, insisted he wanted more children.

Cruelty, ruled the judge yesterday, giving Mrs. Macias a divorce.

FAIRLESS HELD TO BLAME FOR STRIKE THREAT

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16 (AP)—The prospects of peace in the steel industry, with a strike deadline only nine days away, seemed dimmer today.

An exchange of angry telegrams between Philip Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steelworkers, and Benjamin Fairless, head of U. S. Steel corporation—big steel—appeared to widen the breach further.

Murray said the company, by failing to accept the recommendation of President Truman's fact finding board, was forcing the steelworkers which he was accused.

After Rajk concludes his recital, Lieut. Gen. Gyorgy Palffy, former chief inspector of the Hungarian army and number two defendant, is scheduled to take the stand.

toward a walkout. The fact finders suggested no wage raise but a 10-cent hourly package for company financed insurance and pensions. The union has accepted the finding.

Fairless said U. S. Steel is ready to meet with the union for negotiations but does not accept the non-contributory plan for insurance and pensions. If there is a strike, Fairless added, the union must take responsibility for it.

At Chicago, Inland Steel company called on Murray to resume contract talks immediately "without reference to whatever U. S. Steel may or may not do."

Inland quoted Murray as saying

August 29 that the union "has always been ready, and is ready now, not only to negotiate separately, but to reach separate agreement with any steel company, big or little."

The firm called on Murray "to make good the commitment."

Inland said that on July 18 it submitted a pension plan to the union but that the union rejected it. The company said the plan would cost the company $3,000,000 annually or about 10 cents an hour. Employees would be required to share the cost.

Plan On Guide

At Washington, President Truman indicated he thought it was well understood his fact finding board's plan for settling the dispute was intended as a guide for bargaining. He told a news conference there is a decided difference between accepting the board's finding outright and accepting them as a basis for negotiating a strike-averting agreement.

The President said he hoped negotiations would progress to a settlement.

Government labor experts privately gave this explanation of the union-industry statement exchange: Fairless wants to resume bargaining without any advance commitment on the board report; Murray wants an advance understanding to work out something along the lines recommended by the board.

Use Radar To Study Monongahela Bottom

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16 (AP)—A group of Pittsburgh's top rivermen today know more than they ever knew before about the bottom of the world's busiest river, the Monongahela, thanks to the magic of electronics.

The silt-laden secrets of the channel were revealed by a new depth recorder. The gadget "sees" with sound waves like radar "sees" with radio waves.

A top secret during the war, the depth recorder, was demonstrated yesterday on a special boat ride for the area's river experts. They watched as the machine recorded hidden ledges, rock projections and the like under the murky water.

WHY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is No Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What Are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing written contracts—just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investigate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dispute. This Board reported, in part, as follows:

"... It is with a deep sense of regret that we are obliged to report the failure of our mission. It seems inconceivable to us that a coercive strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occurrence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organizations in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor Act...."

Obviously the railroads cannot be run efficiently or economically if the leaders of the unions ignore agreements or laws.

Provisions of the Law Which Are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts:

- 1—Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board.
- 2—Decision by System Adjustment Board for the specific railroad.
- 3—Decision by arbitration.
- 4—Decision by neutral referee.
- 5—Decision by courts.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these disputes settled in accordance with the requirements of the Railway Labor Act. Regardless of this fact, the union leaders have shut down that railroad.

Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employees, and are the most highly paid of all employees on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employees of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconvenience and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provisions of the law for the settlement of such disputes, then all thinking Americans must face the question, "What is the next step?"

STORING CELERY FOR HOME USE

There are four soundly practicable ways to store celery for home use and even for limited marketing in late fall and early winter. These include banking the crop in the growing row, storage in hotbed pits or coldframes, moving clumps to a cool cellar, and burial in special garden pits. Of course, in all cases only the late crop can be safely stored. And this should be grown to maturity free from interfering weeds and grass.

Many gardeners have long practiced ridging celery in the row. This is particularly advantageous with such hardy varieties as the Giant Pascal and others which are blanched with ridged soil as they grow. By the time freezing weather arrives the row is already highly ridged. At the last application of soil the tops are brought together and allowed to protrude through the ridge crest as a means of ventilation. Some straw may then be placed over the tops and two 10- or 12-inch boards placed over the straw to form an inverted-V protection to hold the straw and shed water. This final covering should be delayed as late as weather conditions permit, else a long warm spell may induce stalk rot.

If sufficient coldframe or hotbed space is available, well matured clumps of late celery may be taken up by the roots just before cold weather comes and set close together in the frame as if they were being transplanted. Sandy soil is then worked over and around the roots and the soil watered to settle it. Sash is kept on the bed, shaded with dry vegetation, with ventilation regulated throughout the storage period as necessary.

If space permits, a few clumps of late celery may be moved to a cool cellar and placed close together on a 5-inch layer of sandy soil in a dark corner. Soil should be firmed over the roots and the clumps kept mildly moist to prevent shriveling. It is not wise, however, to attempt to keep celery more than 4 to 8 weeks by this method.

Experience demonstrates that burial in a special outdoor pit is the most satisfactory and economical way to store celery. A pit 10 to 20 or 24 inches deep, the depth depending on how completely water can be drained from the site, is dug from 2 to 5 feet wide, with length determined by the size of the crop. Boards supported by stakes are placed along each side of the pit, extending 2 to 5 inches above the tops of celery clumps. On a layer of sandy soil placed in the bottom of the pit the clumps are set close together like they were being transplanted. Watering is necessary to settle the soil after it is carefully worked over the roots. After open ventilation removes surplus moisture, poles, 2 x 4's, or similar timbers are placed crosswise from one side board to the other and on this framework straw, hay, fodder, leaves or other dry vegetation is heaped to shed water and prevent freezing. Soil is then banked high against the side boards but the ends are kept open until just before freezing weather arrives.

Removal of celery from this type of pit is not difficult even during inclement weather, although the hotbed and coldframe pit method provides an easier means of reaching the crop, especially when the ground is frozen.

The editor invites questions on all phases of vegetable storage.

suitable dark room where the temperature and humidity can be controlled. Preparations should begin now. The editor will be glad to furnish interested readers full details.

Several hardy shrubs, in fact, most ornamental shrubs, should be set out next month. This means orders placed with nurseries in September, soil preparations, and other arrangements to permit prompt planting when stock arrives.

MORE BLACK LOCUST TREES NEEDED

Black locust fence posts are surpassed in length of service by only one other species of timber—Osage orange. There is a sustained and heavy demand for this native tree for mine props, grape stakes, tree-nails in shipbuilding, and in many other roles where a heavy, hard, close-grained, durable timber is needed. Then too, black locust trees thrive on almost any type of soil, in sun or shade. These are but a few of the major reasons why farmers with idle land should consider this tree for putting non-productive land "to work" as sources of future revenue.

Of course, the revenue factor is too often allowed to crowd out the even greater merits of black locust—its value for checking soil erosion on sloping land and particularly in halting the disastrous gnawing away of valuable land by gullies. Being a legume plant, black locust stores nitrogen from the air in its root nodules, thereby enriching the soil while the long tapering roots form an interlaced mass to halt the soil's escape. Then add its timber values already mentioned, and black locust trees offer an array of convincing reasons why land owners should consider them as sound investments.

There are three main ways to start this tree—(1) Buy nursery seedlings; (2) Transplant volunteer sprouts or seedlings from native plantings; and (3) Grow seedlings from seed.

Several states furnish farmers seedling trees at cost. Citizens may obtain information on this point by writing their state forest commissioner or their state agricultural college.

If most of the tiny feeder rootlets are included, sprouts or seedlings from old black locust clumps may be quite easily moved to growing sites any time from late October until early spring. Two facts demand emphasis in this method of increasing tree numbers: First, the roots must not be unduly injured or allowed to dry out by long exposure to sun and air; next, the top should be cut back severely after transplanting in order that demands for sustenance will not outweigh the ability of the disrupted roots to supply them during the next growing season.

Any gardener or farmer may easily grow thousands of black locust seedlings by gathering seed after it is ripe in early fall. Hand picking of pods from a stepladder is usually advisable, as much seed is lost if allowed to remain until the pods drop. After pods are dry the seed may be removed by placing the pods in sacks and flailing them. One bushel of dry pods yields on an average about three pounds of seed. A pound of cleaned seed numbers from 20,000 to 25,000, depending somewhat on the particular variety and type of tree. Usually only 10 to 20 seeds from every 100 germinate, but occasionally the rate of germination reaches as high as 90.

Inoculate the seed bed by mixing loam from a site where black locust grows naturally with the present soil. Soak seed for 12 hours in water held at a temperature around 150 degrees. Sow thickly to obtain a uniform stand of plants.

Experienced growers in this latitude store dry seed in glass jars over winter and sow it in late February or early March in a fertile, mellow garden bed or coldframe. Small seedlings may be moved to a roomier location and kept thriving until they are one year old. Then they may be shifted to their permanent growing site.

Interested readers should write their Congressman for a free copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1628—Growing Black Locust Trees. Of course, the editor will gladly answer all related questions.

Where Sixty Minutes
Seem but Half an Hour!

DISTANCE isn't the only thing which passes swiftly when you sit at the wheel of a 1949 Cadillac. So does time!

You rest your hand on the beautiful steering wheel and press your toe—ever so lightly—against the obedient throttle . . . and you're off on a wonderful journey.

Your ride is free and easy and restful. You just sit—and relax—and enjoy the scenery—and the companionship of those about you. Conversation is as easy as if you were sitting in your own drawing room—for the car is so quiet you can hear the soft ticking of the electric clock.

The labor of driving is almost nonexistent. The big powerful motor moves you in and out of traffic as if by automatic propulsion. Steering is little more than a response to your wish. Brakes are light to the touch and velvety-smooth in action.

You are as relaxed and care-free as the happy passengers around you,

For you do little more than the thinking—and the car does the rest. And then a familiar landmark looms in the distance. Can it be that you are there?

You look at the clock and you look at the speedometer—and, surely enough, the time and the distance have passed, and your journey is over. Better come in and see for yourself that—when you sit at the wheel of a Cadillac—sixty minutes seem but half an hour!

munist Albania as a measure of self-defense, if guerrilla forces launch further attacks on Greek soil from Albania, has capitals on both sides of the iron curtain worried. Washington, London and Moscow are particularly concerned, and it's reported that the Anglo-American brotherhood is likely to take steps to discourage any such military operation by their Greek ally. It wouldn't be surprising if Russia also advised Albania to go easy.

Why? Well, because a Greek invasion of Albania could very easily precipitate another world war. And perhaps the most significant, and hopeful, aspect of the current affair is that both sides in the cold war are anxious to avoid another general upheaval.

Trouble Breeders

The Balkans through the centuries have been the whirling ground of armed conflicts. The situation at the moment is particularly delicate, not only on account of the Greece-Albanian row but because relations between Turkey and Bulgaria are tense — or perhaps one should say more tense than usual. To this must be added the feud which has developed between Yugoslavia and Russia's Balkan satellites because of dictator Tito's political revolt against Moscow.

Of course the fact that Greece's sponsors frown on any invasion of Albania is in no sense due to doubts as to the truth of the Athens charges. The Albanian operations have been carried on more or less openly and brazenly for a long time. It just isn't smart to retaliate in such fashion as to precipitate another global upheaval.

Keeping Watch There
You wouldn't think such a little country as Albania could stir up so much trouble. It has an area of only 10,629 square miles and an estimated population of about a million.

Albania lies between Yugoslavia and Greece and is a corridor into the Balkan peninsula. For this reason it has for hundreds of years been used as a gateway by invading armies.

Flip a match anywhere in the Balkans these days and you could start a fire which might be hard to put out. The encouraging thing is that the Moscow, Washington and London fire-wardens all are keeping an eye out to see that nobody tosses that match.

CORN BAKE AND MEETING HELD BY SPORTSMEN

Approximately 150 members and guests were present at the monthly meeting of the Littlestown Fish and Game association Wednesday evening at the Fish and Game Farm in Germany township. A corn bake preceded the business session, and was conducted by a committee composed of Earl Brumgard, Lewis Lippy and Charles Morehead.

Dr. Joseph R. Riden, president of the association, was in charge of the business meeting. The association is divided into teams to raise funds for the treasury, and Kenneth Olinger announced that his team will hold a shooting match on Friday, October 7, at 7 o'clock at the Fish and Game farm.

Karl P. Bankert, captain of the trap team, announced that a shoot will be held on Sunday at McSherrytown. The local group is to have a five-man team participating. Mr. Bankert also announced the following schedule for the shoots to be held during the next few months in the Adams County Sportsmen's Association: September 24, York Springs; October 8, Gettysburg; October 22, Littlestown; November 6, McSherrytown; November 26, York Springs; December 17, Gettysburg; and December 31, Littlestown. He also stated that the team with the best score for the year in the shoots will receive a trophy.

The president appointed the following committees: To secure a stove for the building on the farm, Harry O. Harner, James U. Bowers and Kenneth Olinger; to secure chairs for the same place, Richard A. Little, J. Edgar Yealy and William H. Renner; and to purchase a set of table service, James U. Bowers. A gun will be given away Saturday night at Zerling's hardware store by Karl P. Bankert's team from the association.

Leo Bushman, Gettysburg, Adams county game protector, was a guest at the meeting and spoke to the members concerning county game affairs. He said that there has been a set aside to purchase corn in the fields of the farmers of Adams county, to be left standing in the fields as food for game. He announced that the prices of hunting licenses have been increased to $3.15; non-residents will pay $20, and the price of trapping license is $25.

Gives Report On Game

Mr. Bushman also informed his audience that the wild turkeys in the South Mountains are doing very well. Restocking has taken place this year and the turkeys from last season have been seen with their young during the summer. Franklin, Cumberland and Adams counties have been closed to turkey hunting this year and it is hoped that if the turkeys continue to thrive, in a few years, hunting will be permitted in the South Mountain area. He also stated that squirrel, quail, pheasants and deer are on the increase in Adams county. The cooperative game farms have been "a huge success" and in the very near future, the game commission wishes to increase this project in the state to a million acres, he said.

President Riden welcomed George A. Kress, Jr., back into the group, after his absence for the summer as a member of the baseball team of Wausau, Wis., where Kress starred as an outfielder and hitter. Mr. Kress responded with brief remarks.

The following committee was appointed for the October meeting, the time and place for which will be announced later: J. Harvey Pettyjohn, Herman Newman and Dennis Hofe.

MINISTERS TO MEET

Following the summer recess, the monthly meetings of the Gettysburg Classis Ministerium of the Reformed church will be resumed on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This meeting will be held in the study of Trinity Reformed church, Hanover, the Rev. H. E. Sheely, pastor. The theme of this first meeting will be the annual theme for the September meeting.

Sees Self-Supporting Europe As "Possible"

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 16 (AP)—Marshall Plan Administrator Paul G. Hoffman foresees a self-supporting western Europe as a "definite possibility" by June 30, 1952.

In his first major speech since returning two weeks ago from a tour of seven European countries, Hoffman disclosed that the plan is now ahead of schedule.

However, he cautioned that fulfilling the target date "is going to take a lot of doing on the part of both Europeans and Americans." He spoke last night at a meeting of the Michigan Municipal league.

As a further means of advancing world prosperity, Hoffman advised the United States to take a "slightly higher percentage" of European imports. He said this would be balanced by "our own high volume of American exports."

The American Red Cross annually spends more money in behalf of servicemen than any other organization except the military establishment itself.

Ding Dong Daddy Of D Car Line Takes 13th Or 14th Bride Today

San Francisco, Sept. 16 (AP)—Ring those bells, wedding bells—not once but 13 or 14 times for the ding dong daddy of the D car line.

Francis Van Wie will wed again today—for the 13th or 14th time. The smiling, balding, 62-year-old former conductor of San Francisco's municipal railway will marry Mrs. Mary Aba, 49, of Oakland.

Mrs. Aba, who knows all about Van Wie's predilection for orange blossoms, smiled happily today.

Apparently she is not worried by the fact that he served two years in San Quentin prison for marrying 12 or 13 wives (the count was never definitely established) without bothering about the formality of annulment or divorce.

"I was off the beam for a while there," Van Wie admitted, "but that's all over now."

"Yes, dear," said Mrs. Aba. Van Wie, a rambling romantic on the rails, was a conductor on the D car line when he rang up his record of marriages without a transfer. Now he's a porter at a cocktail lounge.

He was also identified as a former lion tamer whose catnip was marriage. A former mind reader, he didn't know his own mind.

"All I wanted was a quiet home and peace and contentment," he said four years ago when police rang the bell on his careening trolley of love.

Cosmic rays are best observed at high altitudes.

A U.S. Navy pilot when he is ready James Polk was the shortest-lived to step into his plane may have 40 of all American presidents. He died pounds of clothing and gear on him. at 53.

Lions Hear About N.Y.C. Convention

The program at the semi-monthly meeting of the Littlestown Lions club Thursday evening at Bankert's restaurant included a resume of the proceedings of the international convention held recently in New York city, by Erwin A. Rebert, who was official delegate from the local club. A motion picture entitled "Skifully Yours," was shown by John D. Basehoar. John F. Feezer, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting.

One new member, James R. Reaver, was accepted into the organization. One hundred per cent attendance was successfully observed by the club at the meeting, which also marked the first night of the perfect attendance contest, which will continue until the second April meeting of the club. The finance committee, composed of Harry J. Koontz, Karl P. Bankert and John W. LeGore was in charge of the meeting. The next meeting, to be held on Thursday, October 6, will be in charge of the Lions Education committee, which includes Robert L. Crouse, W. E. Koons, Worthy A. Crabbs and Vernon C. Reaver.

Someone May Forget

It is all right to depend on memory for some things, but when money is involved, nothing takes the place of a written record. Mental notes are not permanent. Even if you do remember, the other fellow may forget.

Use checks to pay bills—especially those in large amounts. When you write a check, a record is made at the same time. You have a legal receipt which may be kept indefinitely. You have figures which are valuable when you pay income tax—and at many other times.

Organize your finances on a sounder basis. Pay by check. Your account is invited.

NOT FIRE ALONE—

AUTUMN TIME

A haze on the far horizon,
The infinite, tender sky,
The ripe, rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high—
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the golden-rod,
Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.
